The fantasy world, where you rise from the fallen. In this fantasy world, where barbarians run wild, magic has become commonplace and demons dare to be named, a civilization exists that stands aloof. This civilization is named the Elden Ring, and its Lords have risen to hold dominion over a myriad of nations and races. Their power is immense, but the race is changing. The world is careening toward a new age. The Elden Ring is ready. Download the official Elden Ring Game, now!

Q: Why does MongoDB index not work for search? I created a view in MongoDB to find all documents of a specific application (name) that have a field 'team' with a particular value. The view has the following format: `db.myview.find({'application': 'name', 'team': 'value'})` When running the following query in MongoDB GUI, the index doesn't seem to be used: `db.myview.find({'application': 'name', 'team': 'value'})` This is as far as I could tell of my MongoDB knowledge. I don't know much about MongoDB.

A: There is no way to use indexes if the result set is empty. You can use an aggregation query to get the same result. The results will be ordered by the combination of application and team, and will be roughly proportional to the size of the result set.

`db.myview.aggregate([{ "$match": { "application":`

"name", "team": "value" }}, { "$group": { "_id": {
"application": "$application", "team": "$team" } } }
])

How to get a document by key in MongoDB

MongoDB indexes are fairly simple. If you have an application with the title "My App", with a team "My Team", and with the id 1, the index would look like this: { "applications": [1], "tenants": [1], "team": [

USS Robert C. Hilbish USS Robert C. Hilbish (DE-450) was acquired by the U.S. Navy during World War II. The primary purpose of the destroyer escort was to escort and protect ships in convoy, and she served in the Atlantic Ocean. Robert C. Hilbish (DE-450) was launched 25 September 1943 by The Bethlehem-Hingham Shipyard, Inc., Hingham, Massachusetts; sponsored by Mrs. G.R. Applegate; and commissioned 12 December 1943, Lieutenant W. F. Spurr, USNR, in command. World War II North Atlantic operations Following shakedown in the New England area, Hilbish sailed to Bermuda 2 January 1944, then continued into the Caribbean, arriving at Bermuda again 14 January. For the next two months she steamed back and forth between Bermuda and the Caribbean, continuing to lay a strengthening antisubmarine and interdiction screen for the convoys. On 2 March she moved to the Grand Banks and departed for home 15 April, arriving at New York 8 May. She then continued on to Charleston, South Carolina, where she unloaded her cargo before she sailed 17 May. Hilbish continued on to the Gulf of Mexico, arriving at Mobile Bay, Alabama 10 June. Upon completing her mission she returned to Norfolk, Virginia. Post-war decommissioning

Available Modes Story Online Offline Single Player Multiplayer Online Multiplayer 1v1 Online Multiplayer 2v2 Ultimate Time Attack ● STORY A HEAVY ARMADA ATTACK THE HUMAN CIVILIZATION OF THE BEACON CITY Raise an army of Titans and let them smash the human civilization one by one in an epic battle Story ● DIALOGUE You live in the lush, forest-covered lands between the ends of the world. The Lands Between. The world is at its death throes, and humankind is evolving into an unnaturally large, muscled beast. If the land is the bones of humanity, the Lands Between are its flesh. The Lands Between is sparsely populated, and its atmosphere is chilling. A beautiful world, where a few hundred people live peacefully in a tiny plot of land, and lizards of unknown origin are worshiped. The Lands

Between has three large cities: The Great City of the North, the Kingdom of Calanthe, and the lands of the beacon town, Dolven. [Dolven] The beacon town has fewer people than Calanthe, but is richer and smarter. It hosts a Magic Academy, a research institution devoted to magic, and Tetsu, the immortal king, who has revived the “Old Wizard” and taken over the leadership of the land. Dolven is also home to the Great City of the North, a destination for adventurer gladiators to practice their skills. The Great City of the North is a symbol of all magic and the peaceful, strong nation of Calanthe. [Calanthe] Calanthe is a nation that has revived itself from the ashes of its civilization. It is home to tens of thousands of people. Its citizens are divided into numerous factions, with a few leaders in the nation. Calanthe is a primitive, stable, and wealthy nation. It has a large, strong military and a rich culture. Its lands are thick with forests that are home to monsters. [The Great City of the North] The Great City of the North is the headquarters of the adventurer gladiators and Tetsu’s descendants. It is located in the center of the Lands Between. At the time of the end of the world, it was a bustling trading town. With the rise in the number of monsters more info...> Nomad - Living in Airbnb's owned homes (paid by living in Airbnb's owned homes) - letscompany ===== lucasverra same concept as with the creators of AirBNB - except this one is paid + for living in AirBNB ones plus paid a net profit/loss. I really like the idea - I wanna try it. But I am really really confused about how does this guys get money to pay the hosts. Like if it's a profit or a loss for them? On average how much means net profit on an AirBNB stay? Could someone explain it to me clearer? ~~~ stevoski The ones that are earning a profit and a negative net profit are the ones that are providing the accommodation. But the profits and losses are distributed between them according to the proportion of accommodation they are providing. As you say, this is very confusing. I don't know why when a host tells recruiters that they want $80,000 but are charging $600 a month why they are put off the idea. I
