This is a 2D universe where players can create big bangs, and move planets. Players can move and change the properties of the universe like gravity, dark matter and dark energy of the universe. Players can construct a civilization and rule the universe. In this Universe, players will be God, and the universe, and there are no limits in creating a universe. The player can travel to the other planets of the universe, and travel to all the dimensions.In the other dimensions, the players can play with other players. Another dimension is not restricted, the player can use any technology or tool to fight with each other and make the universe impossible. There is a basic technology, such as the player's universe, gravity, and weak interaction. All these technologies is only enough for a small universe. Once we enter the next dimension, a new technology or research on dimension will be added to the existing one. Players can train technologies, or make research in a dimension to the end to enhance the powers of the player. The story is about people that will live in the main universe. They are the players. The game world is the universe and the players are the god that lives in the universe. The players can use technology, or they can be more powerful to defeat or destroy their opponents. The universe will be shrinking and it will continue to be bigger from now on. About Game Size: The capacity of a universe is limited to 10^{23} (10^{23}), and the size of a universe is usually between $10^{26}\sim10^{28}$. This size is the boundary where humans cannot be controlled because the required technology exceeds the capacity of the universe. Although we can use the technology to create a much bigger universe, but the speed of the universe will be much faster. So the universe will shorten and get closer to 0. The speed of the universe becomes faster, and the density of the universe becomes smaller. In this universe, players can make a universe of their own. Players can make their own universe to play with others, or they can make the universe for themselves to be alone. The size of a universe is limited to 10^{23}, which is impossible to control by the creator. The power of the universe will become stronger and stronger as the universe get smaller, will play a role of the most powerful, the most powerful will dominate the universe. At the end, the universe will be smaller than a planet. There will not be space for a player to live and control. Everything is zero-
