Message Text: SUN Microsystems (Nasdaq: SMRX) today announced that its Java Virtual Machine (JVM) for 64-bit Intel Architecture (IA)-based computing systems has been adopted by a leading technology provider to support its application development and deployment needs. "Sun released Java 5 last month on the IA platform to address Java's dependence on the x86 architecture. Our Oracle JVM for IA provides Sun with a long-term, fully supported JVM that can be backed by its existing excellent engineering resources," said Mike Fanuele, vice president, middleware, Sun Microsystems. "Java 5 is an important milestone for the Java platform and provides some
